Interested in fintech, should I go for a finance internship or more traditional analytics role?

So as noted in the title, I have the opportunity to do either a pretty traditional finance role this summer in investment finance, with a two week bootcamp on the basics of the field, or I have the chance to do a more traditional analytics internship. My background is I am a current postgraduate student in a DS adjacent discipline.

I already have two years experience working as a paid data science intern for my current company, so I'm not worried about having a lack of experience per se in a DS context, but I was talking to some friends of mine who work in finance and they were i. surprised I landed the role at all and ii. mentioned that it probably makes my resume look a bit confused.

I'd say go for what's more interesting to you, and don't listen to "friends" too much. For all you know they could be jealous.

Nate 9 hours ago

Having internships in several fields can also bring value in the sense that you're a credible applicant to twice the amount of roles.

Josh 5 hours ago

It's also easily explainable at interviews (I tried X then Y that made me realized I like X the most)

Hi Nate, My name is Josh! I'm a member of your community and really enjoy the content. I came across the Samsung job that you shared and was wondering if you'd be open to take a look at a project I've done that aligns with the qualifications!

11:04 AM

Hi Josh! Thanks for reaching out. What skill(s) are you trying to demonstrate through this project?

10:45 AM

Thanks for getting back to me Nate! I did a Excel-based project (budgeting) to showcase my excel and finance skills

12:37 PM

Sounds good! I can take a look and make suggestions. Go ahead and upload it here and I'll get back to you within a week

1:04 PM

Thank you, I greatly appreciate it!

Thanks for sharing Nate! Would you recommend listing your soft skills on resume as well?

Great question! Recruiters like to see soft skills on your resume. However, they need to be demonstrated through examples rather than just saying that you're a good communicator.

Thanks for sharing Nate! Would you recommend listing your soft skills on resume as well?

Great question! Recruiters like to see soft skills on your resume. However, they need to be demonstrated through examples rather than just saying that you're a good communicator.

Hi Nate, My name is Josh! I'm a member of your community and really enjoy the content. I came across the Samsung job that you shared and was wondering if you'd be open to take a look at a project I've done that aligns with the qualifications!

10:45 AM

Hi Josh! Thanks for reaching out. What skill(s) are you trying to demonstrate through this project?

11:04 AM

Thanks for getting back to me Nate! I did a Excel-based project (budgeting) to showcase my excel and finance skills

12:37 PM

Sounds good! I can take a look and make suggestions. Go ahead and upload it here and I'll get back to you within a week

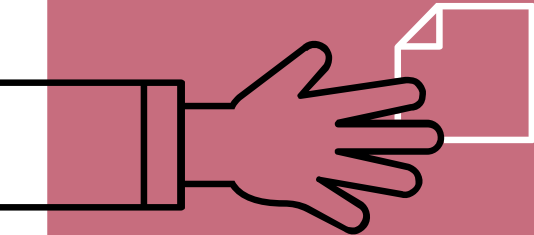

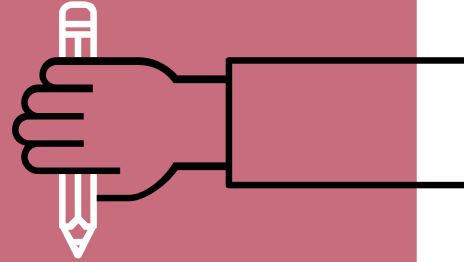

1:04 PM

Thank you, I greatly appreciate it!

The image shows a screenshot of the HYREUS user interface. On the left is a dark red sidebar with the logo 'HYREUS' and the email 'RenalRecruiter@gmail.com'. Below the email are navigation options: Home, My Space (highlighted), Communities, Notifications, and Private Messages. At the bottom of the sidebar are 'Log Out', 'Account Settings', and 'Privacy & Security'. The main content area is titled 'My Space' and has a '+ Post a Job' button in the top right. A white modal window titled 'Create a Post' is centered on the screen, containing the text 'Share your thoughts with the community', a large text input area, and icons for adding images and videos. A red 'Post' button is at the bottom right of the modal. The background shows a blurred post from 'Venturity' with the text 'Curious if Venturity is the right fit for you? There's no better way to learn than to hear straight from our team members.'
